Morte, Badger, and Darryn follow in behind the adrenaline bidden Paladin. Their friend covered with the joy of battle he so familiarly embraces.

Battle continues

Everyone regroups around the fallen  Ga-Al "Spiritlifter".

Darryn scowls towards each of the men, cowering at the sight at them, and looks through their possessions for gold (38, 19 silver) (1 dagger, basic short sword, and leather armour) darryn do the thiefy thief thing, while badger is going through and disarming each of them.

Ga-al regains consciousness (1hp).

badger quick to help, moves to ga-al and casts upon him a soft glow, showering him... Light wounds begin to heal, and physically you can see the Goliath look much healthier (lay on hands ability +10 health). As soon as thats resolved, he finnishes tying up the men, and they begin questioning them.

Note: The creatures taken in by the three eyed gang are ruthlessly abused.

Three Eyed man Battle

Ga-al seeing the woman laying unconscious, using the last dreads of his great magic to use healing words to bring the woman back from the brink. Quickly follows is the Morte rifles through different chest and also takes note of a chard square patch on the wall that looks remarably like a doorway. A set of foot steps clearly leading towards it.

The woman wakes, coughing blood. Badger assist Ga-al and work the last bit of divine magic he feels to healing her. Breathing out "My boy!", and then quickly passes out in the arms of Ga-al.

Remembering the task at hand. The party looks for the worm that 🧑 Bartholomu Melru the 4th had asked for.
